

All rights (including but not limited to performance rights) reserved by the author.
Contact Robert Kerr at RKerr@robertkerr.net for more information.

THIS IS THE WAY
[EXCERPT]

a one-minute play
by

Robert Kerr

Copyright 2011
by Robert Kerr

www.robertkerr.net
rkerr@robertkerr.net

Copyright 2011 by Robert Kerr

CHARACTERS

Y.

Z.

(Each part may be played by either a man or a woman. Gendered pronouns are for convenience only.)

(Y. and Z. hiding under something—a table, a set of stairs, a tree—watching the sky. The scene starts in near darkness, but the lights gradually rise throughout the scene.)

Trees blossoming in the spring.	Y.
The snow, glittering like chips of ice.	Z.
Sunrise over Lake Michigan.	Y.
Night in the desert.	Z.
The surf coming and going, like breath.	Y.
In fall, the last leaf on a tree.	Z.
...
It's getting closer.
How much time?	Y.
A minute, maybe less.	Z.
...
Let's do foods.
Artichokes.
Blood oranges.	Z.
Salmon on a plank.	Y.
Tiramasu.	Z.

[END OF EXCERPT]